

I can certainly see why the large radio and tv conglomerates dont want to see XM Radio carry instant traffic and weather information. What I dont understand is Why the FCC is even allowing the argument to get this far. Don't you have better things to regulate. Stop the madness. All that is going to happen is XM radio is going to be forced to raise their prices to pay for any future court battle, which you know all to well they will win. The only losers in all this is again the consumer. Way to go!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
